In Jackson Hole in the spring of 1904, in March, Mr. Carrington says two wolves came into the valley. They killed one or more elk when a crowd got out & killed the ♀, that was nursing. The male left, but the pups could not be found.

The year before Ray McBride shot 6 wolves in the Hole all together, followed them all day on first tracking snow & shot them all. An old settler in the Hole (John Holland (now of Seio, Or.) said these were the first wolves that had been in Jacksons Hole for 17 years. None have been known in the Hole since 1904.
